In THE DARK HORSE, widowed Chloe Brewton has made a life for herself in Christmas Town, Maine, teaching literature and being the drama coach at the high school. Although she'd loved her husband and their life in the army, she doesn't really want to start over with someone else, but when she meets Major Row Welcome, in Christmas Town to spend the holiday month with relatives and decide about his future, she feels stirrings of old wishes for happily-ever-after. The attraction is mutual, although the last thing Row wants is to try marriage again, plus he's about as interested in having a family as...well, he isn't. But then there's Connor Michaud and his three younger siblings. Oh, no. What now in Christmas Town?
